

Contents

Part I Demographic Trends

1	Low Fertility in Europe in a Global Demographic Context .....	3
	Wolfgang Lutz and Vegard Skirbekk
1.1	Introduction .....	3
1.2	The End of Population Growth in a Demographically Divided World .....	4
1.3	The Changing Global Distribution of Population and Human Capital .....	8
1.4	How Low Can Fertility Fall in Europe? .....	10
1.5	Three Mechanisms that May Cause a Downward Spiral in Future Birth Rates .....	13
1.6	Conclusions .....	17

Part II The Impact of Demographic Developments on Key Indicators

2	Demography and Budget Consolidation: An Analysis and Possible Courses of Action .....	23
	Johannes Meier and Ole Wintermann
2.1	Introduction .....	23
2.2	Public Debt Monitor .....	24
2.3	Successful Consolidation: An International Comparison .....	27
2.4	Reform Measures on the Expenditure Side .....	27
2.5	Reform Measures on the Revenue Side .....	28
2.6	Institutional Changes in the Budget Process .....	28
2.7	Drawing Conclusions from “Soft Factors” .....	29
2.8	Summary and Outlook .....	29
3	Intergenerational Justice and Economic Growth. A Challenge for Economic Policy .....	31
	Michael Hüther
3.1	Economic Theory and the Theory of Justice .....	31
3.2	Germany: Facing Demographic Change and the Need for Education Reform .....	33

3.3	Driving Forces of Economic Growth	39
3.4	The Concept of Intergenerational Justice	43
3.5	A National Strategy for Long-term Growth	47
4	Demographic Development: Not Really a Problem for Coming Generations	53
	Thomas Straubhaar
4.1	Introduction	53
4.2	Demographic Change and Economic Consequences	54
	4.2.1 A Few Theoretical Preliminary Remarks ...	54
	4.2.2 ... and Their Empirical Relevance	57
4.3	Prospects	59
	4.3.1 More Goods for Less People	59
	4.3.2 Growing Populations in Other World Areas	60
	4.3.3 Aging, Not Shrinking Is the Problem	60
4.4	Political Recommendations	61
4.5	Family Policy	61
4.6	Migration	61
	4.6.1 Immigration Is a Help but Not a Solution	62
4.7	Increasing Duration of Working Life	63
	4.7.1 Work Longer!	64
4.8	Increase of Labor Force Participation	64
	4.8.1 Women at Work!	64
	4.8.2 Old, Not Stupid!	65
4.9	Reform of Labor Force Behavior	66
	4.9.1 Lifelong Learning	66
4.10	Reform of the Pension System	67
	4.10.1 Many, Instead of Single Pillars	67
	4.10.2 Make Your Choice!	68
4.11	Summary	69
5	Macroeconomics and Age Structure in a Welfare State – Sweden 1946–2005	71
	Thomas Lindh and Bo Malmberg
5.1	Demography and Welfare State Macroeconomics	71
5.2	Macroeconomic Mechanisms for Age Effects	74
5.3	Estimation Methods	78
5.4	Estimated Age Patterns	81
5.5	Discussion of the Estimates	84
5.6	The Importance of Age Structure for Swedish Economic Development	87
5.7	Concluding Remarks	91

Part III The Relationship Between Key Sustainability Indicators and Intergenerational Justice

6	Demographic Change and Sustainability: A Generational Balance . . . .	99
	R. Andreas Kraemer, Daniel Blobel, Anneke von Raggamby, Doris Knoblauch
6.1	Introduction: Is Growing Good and Shrinking Bad? Or Vice Versa? . . . . .	99
6.2	What Does “Generational Balance” Mean in the Context of Sustainability? . . . . .	100
6.3	Demographic Development in Germany – Regional Disparities	101
6.3.1	Germans Don’t Like Children? . . . . .	101
6.3.2	Who Should Have a Family ... . . . . .	103
6.3.3	... Where Have the Women Gone? . . . . .	103
6.3.4	Germany’s East Is Emptying! . . . . .	104
6.3.5	Consequences of Spatial Distribution Underestimated	104
6.4	Energy, Settlements, Mobility – Securing Public Utilities and Services . . . . .	106
6.4.1	Rapidly Changing Lifestyles After the War . . . . .	106
6.4.2	Heritage/Legacy . . . . .	107
6.4.3	Demographic Change Will Be No Solution . . . . .	108
6.4.4	Options for Future Developments . . . . .	110
6.4.5	A Change in Energy Consumption Is Required . . . . .	112
6.4.6	Energy, Settlements and Mobility Are Interconnected . .	114
6.5	Natural Heritage – A Matter of Culture . . . . .	116
6.5.1	Our Natural Heritage Is Cultural Heritage . . . . .	116
6.5.2	Conservation Versus Development: Leading the Way into the Impasse? . . . . .	117
6.5.3	Forces of Change . . . . .	118
6.5.4	Preserving Nature by Allowing for Change . . . . .	120
6.6	Conclusion: The Challenge of Adaptation . . . . .	122
7	Intergenerational Justice in an Extreme Longevity Scenario . . . . .	127
	Ulrich Feeser-Lichterfeld
7.1	Introduction . . . . .	127
7.2	The Truth About the Fountain of Youth? . . . . .	128
7.3	Ethical Issues in Biogerontological Endeavours . . . . .	129
7.4	Consequences for Intergenerational Justice? . . . . .	130
7.5	Anti-aging or Acceptance of Frailty and Finiteness? – A Question for All Generations . . . . .	132

Part IV Intergenerational Justice and Population Policies

8	An Ethical Assessment of the Legitimacy of Anti-natalistic Birth Policies . . . . .	137
	Joerg Chet Tremmel
8.1	Introduction . . . . .	137
8.2	Focus on Anti-natalistic Birth Policies . . . . .	137
8.3	The Human Rights Discourse and the Ethical Discourse . . . . .	142
8.4	The Dissemination of Birth Policies . . . . .	143
8.5	The Role of the State . . . . .	143
8.6	The Democratic Proviso . . . . .	145
8.7	The Link Between Severity and Efficiency . . . . .	146
8.8	The Classification of Birth Policies . . . . .	147
	8.8.1 The Indirect Approach . . . . .	148
	8.8.2 The Appellative Approach . . . . .	149
	8.8.3 The Financial Incentives Approach . . . . .	149
	8.8.4 Restricting Financial Incentives . . . . .	149
	8.8.5 Imposition of Financial Disincentives . . . . .	149
	8.8.6 The Rationing Approach . . . . .	150
8.9	Reaching Ethical Decisions . . . . .	150
8.10	Incentives and Disincentives . . . . .	152
8.11	Are Bonuses and Maluses Equal from an Ethical Point of View? . . . . .	152
8.12	The Four-fifths Rule . . . . .	153
8.13	Arguments Against the Four-fifths Rule . . . . .	156

Part V The Implementation of Long-term Thinking

9	Changing the German Constitution in Favor of Future Generations – Four Perspectives from the Young Generation . . . . .	163
	Marco Wanderwitz, Peter Friedrich, Anna Lührmann, Michael Kauch
9.1	Introduction, by Joerg Chet Tremmel . . . . .	163
9.2	Intergenerational Justice from the Perspective of the Christian Democrats/Christian Socials, by Marco Wanderwitz, Member of the German Bundestag (CDU) . . . . .	164
9.3	Intergenerational Justice – The Social Democratic Perspective, by Peter Friedrich, Member of the German Bundestag (SPD) . . . . .	165
9.4	“We Have Only Borrowed the Earth from Our Children” – The Green Perspective, by Anna Lührmann, Member of the German Bundestag (Green) . . . . .	168
9.5	Intergenerational Justice in the Constitution – The Liberal Perspective, by Michael Kauch, Member of the German Bundestag (FDP) . . . . .	171

10 Demographic Pressure and Attitudes Towards Public Intergenerational Transfers in Germany – How Much Room Left for Reforms? .....	175
Harald Wilkoszewski
10.1 Introduction .....	175
10.2 Theoretical Starting Point – Mannheim’s Concept of Political Generations .....	177
10.3 Preferences Towards Public Intergenerational Transfers .....	180
10.3.1 Beyond the Dichotomy of Altruism Versus Exchange: Motivations for Intergenerational Transfers .....	181
10.3.2 A Set of Motivations for Public Transfers .....	184
10.3.3 Empirical Findings on Preferences Towards Public Intergenerational Transfers .....	186
10.3.4 Socio-demographic Influence on Preferences Towards Public Transfers: Does Age Matter? .....	188
10.3.5 Conclusions .....	189
10.4 Empirical Analysis: Public Intergenerational Transfers in Germany .....	190
10.4.1 Policy-relevant Demographic Trends and the Recent Transfer Policy Shift in Germany .....	190
10.4.2 Current Preferences Towards Public Transfers: Descriptive Findings from the Population Policy Acceptance Survey 2003 .....	194
10.4.3 Preferences of the Elderly Towards Transfers for the Younger Generation: Does Age Matter? .....	200
10.5 Summary and Directions for Future Research .....	202
Information on the Foundation for the Rights of Future Generations .....	207
Subject Index .....	211
Index of Persons .....	217