

Contents

Foreword	V
Preface	VII
Contents – Overview	IX
Contents	XI
List of illustrations	XXIII
List of graphs	XXV
List of tables	XXVII
Executive summary	1
Summary of content	3
1. Introduction and formulation of research questions	15
1.1. Mergers and acquisitions – Importance for economics and firms	15
1.2. But still: Most mergers and acquisitions fail	17
1.2.1. Objective success measures	19
1.2.2. Subjective success measures	21
1.2.3. Summary of success rates of mergers and acquisitions	22
1.3. What are they? - Definitions of mergers and acquisitions	23
1.3.1. Degree of dependency of combinations of firms	24
1.3.2. Mergers of equals vs. takeovers	25
1.4. Why do they happen? Reasons for the occurrence of mergers and acquisitions	27
1.4.1. Contingency explanations	29
1.4.2. Psychological explanations	30
1.4.3. Value generation objectives	32
1.4.3.1. Synergy mechanism	37
1.4.3.1.1. Economic synergy mechanisms	37
1.4.3.1.2. Resource based synergy mechanisms	39
1.4.3.1.3. Transaction cost based synergy mechanisms	40
1.4.3.2. Synergy effects	40
1.4.3.3. Strategic growth objectives of M&A-transactions	42
1.4.3.3.1. Value creation through horizontal mergers and acquisitions	44
1.4.3.3.2. Value creation through product-extending mergers and acquisitions	45
1.4.3.3.3. Value creation through market-extending mergers and acquisitions	46
1.4.3.3.4. Value creation through vertical mergers and acquisitions	46
1.4.3.3.5. Value creation through diversification	47
1.4.3.3.6. Summary of strategic objectives	47
	XI

1.4.3.4.	Financial objectives of M&A-transactions	48
1.4.4.	Synergy potential and synergy effects	49
1.4.5.	Summary	49
1.5.	Why do M&As fail? Success factors for M&A-transactions	50
1.5.1.	A process-based multi-level framework of M&A-success factors	64
1.5.1.1.	Process character of success factors of mergers and acquisitions	64
1.5.1.2.	Levels of analysis of success factors	69
1.5.2.	Strategy making	71
1.5.2.1.	Success factors on the environmental level	72
1.5.2.1.1.	Global economic situation	72
1.5.2.1.2.	Industry specific factors	73
1.5.2.2.	Success factors on the firm level	74
1.5.2.2.1.	Characteristics of the firm	74
1.5.2.2.2.	Strategic objectives	76
1.5.2.3.	Success factors on the individual level	80
1.5.3.	Selection of target	80
1.5.3.1.	Success factors for selection of targets on the environmental level	81
1.5.3.2.	Success factors for selection of targets on the firm level	82
1.5.3.2.1.	Relative size of an acquisition target	82
1.5.3.2.2.	Relatedness and combination potential	84
1.5.3.2.3.	Cultural differences	86
1.5.3.2.4.	Other factors on firm level	90
1.5.3.3.	Success factors for selection of targets on the group level	91
1.5.3.4.	Success factors for selection of targets on the individual level	92
1.5.4.	Structural decision	92
1.5.4.1.	Success factors on the firm level for the structural decision	93
1.5.5.	Negotiation and closing	97
1.5.5.1.	Firm level success factors	97
1.5.5.1.1.	Attitude	97
1.5.5.1.2.	Single bidder vs. multiple bidder	99
1.5.5.1.3.	Payment method – Cash vs. Stock	99
1.5.5.1.4.	Premium paid	99
1.5.6.	Planning and information gathering	101

1.5.7.	Preparation of integration	103
1.5.7.1.1.	Firm level variables	105
1.5.7.1.2.	Organizational detailing	106
1.5.7.1.3.	Characteristics of the integration process	107
1.5.7.1.4.	Communication	109
1.5.7.1.5.	Active integration measures	111
1.5.7.1.6.	Management interventions	112
1.5.8.	Integration implementation	113
1.5.8.1.	Environmental variables – The role of unions	113
1.5.8.2.	Firm level variables – Acculturation	114
1.5.8.3.	Group level variables	116
1.5.8.4.	Individual level variables	118
1.5.8.4.1.	Loss of identity	118
1.5.8.4.2.	Emotional reactions of employees	119
1.5.8.4.3.	Coping strategies	121
1.6.	Relevance of central constructs	123
1.6.1.	Summary of reviewed success factors	123
1.6.2.	Research questions of the present study	129
2.	Theoretical model	133
2.1.	Who builds cooperation ties?	134
2.1.1.	Demographic characteristics	135
2.1.1.1.	Age	135
2.1.1.2.	Gender	138
2.1.1.3.	Education level	139
2.1.2.	Firm related characteristics	140
2.1.2.1.	Rank	140
2.1.2.2.	Seniority	141
2.1.3.	Attitudes	142
2.1.4.	Reactions to mergers	142
2.1.5.	Integration measures	143
2.1.5.1.	Communication	143
2.1.5.2.	Active integration measures	144
2.1.6.	Structure	146
2.1.7.	Summary of research model: Who cooperates?	146

2.2. Who cooperates with whom?	148
2.2.1. Demographic characteristics	151
2.2.1.1. Age	151
2.2.1.2. Gender	151
2.2.1.3. Education level	152
2.2.1.4. Education content	153
2.2.2. Firm related characteristics	153
2.2.2.1. Rank	153
2.2.2.2. Seniority	154
2.2.3. Attitudes	154
2.2.3.1. Work related attitudes	154
2.2.3.2. Reactions to mergers	155
2.2.4. Controls	156
2.2.4.1. Active integration measures	156
2.2.4.2. Structural constraints	156
2.2.5. Summary of the research model: Who cooperates with whom?	157
3. Empirical investigation	159
3.1. Research sites	161
3.1.1. First research site - SpecMatCo	162
3.1.2. SoftCo	164
3.2. Research design	166
3.2.1. Experiment	166
3.2.2. Quasi-experiment	167
3.2.3. Pre-experiment and correlation analysis	169
3.2.4. Research design for this study	170
3.3. Type of data gathered	171
3.3.1. Gathering of secondary data	171
3.3.2. Gathering of non-reactive data	172
3.3.3. Gathering of primary data	174
3.3.3.1. Observation	174
3.3.3.2. Interrogation	177
3.3.3.2.1. Personal interrogation - Interviews	177
3.3.3.2.2. Written interrogation - Questionnaires	181

3.4. Data gathering approach	181
3.4.1. Social network analysis	182
3.4.2. Ego-centered and dyadic networks	184
3.4.3. Social network analysis in this research	187
3.4.3.1. Social network analysis in the first research site	187
3.4.3.2. Social network analysis in the second research site	187
3.5. Selection of the sample	188
3.6. Summary of research setup	188
4. Empirical study at the first research site: SpecMatCo	191
4.1. Time schedule of research	191
4.2. Sample details	192
4.3. Gathering of ego-centered network data	193
4.3.1. Frequency of cooperation	194
4.3.2. Importance of cooperation	194
4.3.3. Strength of cooperation	194
4.3.4. Quality of cooperation	194
4.4. “Who cooperates?” Operationalization of hypotheses 1 to 11	194
4.4.1. Dependent construct: Cooperative behavior of employee	195
4.4.1.1. Existence of ties	195
4.4.1.2. Characteristics of ties: Frequency, importance, strength, and quality	195
4.4.2. Independent constructs	197
4.4.2.1. Demographic characteristics	198
4.4.2.2. Firm dependent characteristics of employees	199
4.4.2.3. Psychological factors affecting cooperation	201
4.4.2.4. Integration measures	203
4.4.3. Controls	206
4.5. Results for the research question “Who cooperates?”	207
4.5.1. Demographic characteristics	212
4.5.1.1. Dependent variables: Commitment and uncertainty	212
4.5.1.2. Dependent variables: Cooperation	214
4.5.2. Firm related characteristics	216
4.5.2.1. Dependent variables: Commitment and uncertainty	217
4.5.2.2. Dependent variables: Cooperation	217
4.5.3. Psychological factors	219
4.5.3.1. Dependent variables: Commitment and uncertainty	220
4.5.3.2. Dependent variables: Cooperation	220

4.5.4.	Integration measures	223
4.5.4.1.	Dependent variables: Commitment and uncertainty	224
4.5.4.2.	Dependent variables: Cooperation	224
4.5.5.	Structural cooperation requirements	226
4.5.6.	Summary of results	227
4.6.	Methodological limitations	231
4.7.	Who cooperates with whom? Operationalization of hypotheses 12 to 22	233
4.7.1.	Dependent construct: Characteristics of cooperation relationships	233
4.7.2.	Independent constructs	233
4.7.2.1.	Demographic similarity	234
4.7.2.2.	Attitude similarity	234
4.7.2.3.	Participation in integration measures	235
4.7.3.	Controls	235
4.8.	Results for the research question “Who cooperates with whom?”	236
4.8.1.	Demographic similarity	238
4.8.2.	Attitude similarity	239
4.8.3.	Participation in integration measures	240
4.8.4.	Structural cooperation requirements	242
4.8.5.	Summary of results	242
4.9.	Methodological limitation of results	244
5.	Empirical study at the second research site: SoftCo	247
5.1.	Time schedule of research	247
5.2.	Sample details	249
5.3.	Gathering of relational data in the present research	250
5.3.1.	Existence of cooperation relationships between employees	257
5.3.2.	Frequency of cooperation of individuals	257
5.3.3.	Importance of cooperation	257
5.3.4.	Strength of cooperation	258
5.3.5.	Relationship with same firm or other firm	258
5.4.	Structure of the results section	259
5.4.1.	Detailed presentation of results	259
5.4.2.	Summary of results	265
5.4.3.	Methodological limitations of the research	266
5.4.4.	Discussion of results	266
5.5.	“Who cooperates?” Operationalization of hypotheses 1 to 11	267
5.5.1.	Dependent construct: Cooperative behaviors of an employee	267
5.5.1.1.	Existence of ties	270
5.5.1.2.	Characteristics of ties: Frequency, importance and strength	271

5.5.2.	Independent constructs	273
5.5.2.1.	Demographic characteristics	274
5.5.2.2.	Firm dependent characteristics of employees	275
5.5.2.3.	Psychological factors affecting cooperation	277
5.5.2.4.	Integration measures	281
5.5.3.	Controls	284
5.6.	Results for the research question “Who cooperates?”	291
5.6.1.	Demographic characteristics	298
5.6.1.1.	Dependent variables: Commitment and uncertainty	299
5.6.1.2.	Dependent variables: Cooperation	300
5.6.1.2.1.	Age	302
5.6.1.2.2.	Gender	302
5.6.1.2.3.	Education level	303
5.6.2.	Firm related characteristics	304
5.6.2.1.	Dependent variables: Commitment and uncertainty	304
5.6.2.2.	Dependent variables: Cooperation	305
5.6.2.2.1.	Rank	305
5.6.2.2.2.	Seniority	306
5.6.3.	Psychological factors	308
5.6.3.1.	Dependent variables: Commitment and uncertainty	308
5.6.3.2.	Dependent variables: Cooperation	309
5.6.3.2.1.	Task orientation	309
5.6.3.2.2.	Responsiveness	311
5.6.3.2.3.	Commitment	312
5.6.3.2.4.	Uncertainty	312
5.6.4.	Integration measures	313
5.6.4.1.	Dependent variables: Commitment and uncertainty	313
5.6.4.2.	Dependent variables: Cooperation	314
5.6.4.2.1.	Degree of feeling informed	316
5.6.4.2.2.	Participation in integration measures	316
5.6.5.	Structural cooperation requirements	317
5.6.6.	Summary of results	317
5.7.	Methodological limitations	321
5.8.	“Who cooperates with whom?” Operationalization of hypotheses 12 to 22	325
5.8.1.	Sample of relevant relationships	325

5.8.2.	Dependent construct	326
5.8.2.1.	Existence of ties	327
5.8.2.2.	Frequency of existing ties	327
5.8.2.3.	Importance of existing ties	327
5.8.2.4.	Strength of existing ties	327
5.8.3.	Independent constructs: Similarity	328
5.8.3.1.	Demographic similarities	328
5.8.3.2.	Firm related similarities	329
5.8.3.3.	Similarity of psychological reactions of employees	329
5.8.4.	Additional variables	330
5.8.4.1.	Participation in integration measures	330
5.8.4.2.	Structural cooperation requirements	331
5.9.	Results for the research question “Who cooperates with whom?”	332
5.9.1.	Similarity of demographic characteristics	337
5.9.1.1.	Age similarity	338
5.9.1.2.	Gender similarity	338
5.9.1.3.	Education level similarity	339
5.9.1.4.	Education content similarity	340
5.9.2.	Similarity of firm-related characteristics	340
5.9.2.1.	Rank similarity	341
5.9.2.2.	Seniority similarity	341
5.9.3.	Similarity of attitudes	342
5.9.3.1.	Similarity of task orientation	343
5.9.3.2.	Similarity of responsiveness	343
5.9.4.	Similarity of reactions to mergers	344
5.9.4.1.	Commitment similarity	345
5.9.4.2.	Uncertainty similarity	345
5.9.5.	Participation in integration measures	346
5.9.6.	Controls	348
5.9.7.	Summary of results	348
5.9.8.	Comparison of new ties with old ties	357
5.10.	Methodological limitations of the research at SoftCo	364
6.	Discussion of results for research question “Who cooperates?”	369
6.1.	Reactions of employees after mergers and acquisitions	370
6.1.1.	Effects of age on reactions	371
6.1.1.1.	Age and reactions at SoftCo	371
6.1.1.2.	Age and reactions at SpecMatCo	372
6.1.1.3.	Synopsis of effects of age on reactions	372

6.1.2.	Effects of gender on reactions	372
6.1.2.1.	Gender and reactions at SoftCo	372
6.1.2.2.	Gender and reactions at SpecMatCo	373
6.1.2.3.	Synopsis of effects of gender on reactions	373
6.1.3.	Effects of education level on reactions	373
6.1.3.1.	Education level and reactions at SoftCo	373
6.1.3.2.	Education level and reactions at SpecMatCo	374
6.1.3.3.	Synopsis of effects of education level on reactions	374
6.1.4.	Effects of rank on reactions	374
6.1.4.1.	Rank and reactions at SoftCo	374
6.1.4.2.	Rank and reactions at SpecMatCo	375
6.1.4.3.	Synopsis of effects of rank on reactions	375
6.1.5.	Effects of seniority on reactions	376
6.1.5.1.	Seniority and reactions at SoftCo	376
6.1.5.2.	Seniority and reactions at SpecMatCo	380
6.1.5.3.	Synopsis of effects of seniority on reactions	380
6.1.6.	Effects of task orientation on reactions	381
6.1.6.1.	Task orientation and reactions at SoftCo	381
6.1.6.2.	Task orientation and reactions at SpecMatCo	382
6.1.6.3.	Synopsis of effects of task orientation on reactions	382
6.1.7.	Effects of the degree of feeling informed on reactions	382
6.1.7.1.	Degree of feeling informed and reactions at SoftCo	382
6.1.7.2.	Degree of feeling informed and reactions at SpecMatCo	384
6.1.7.3.	Synopsis of effects of the degree of feeling informed on reactions	384
6.1.8.	Effects of participation in integration measures on reactions	385
6.1.8.1.	Participation in integration measures and reactions at SoftCo	385
6.1.8.2.	Participation in integration measures and reactions at SpecMatCo	385
6.1.8.3.	Synopsis of effects of participation in integration measures on reactions	386
6.1.9.	Summary for reactions of employees after mergers and acquisitions	386
6.2.	Cooperation of employees after mergers and acquisitions	390
6.2.1.	Effects of age on cooperation	391
6.2.1.1.	Age and cooperation at SoftCo	391
6.2.1.2.	Age and cooperation at SpecMatCo	391
6.2.1.3.	Synopsis of effects of age on cooperation	391
6.2.2.	Effects of gender on cooperation	392
6.2.2.1.	Gender and cooperation at SoftCo	392
6.2.2.2.	Gender and cooperation at SpecMatCo	393
6.2.2.3.	Synopsis of effects of gender on cooperation	393

6.2.3.	Effects of education level on cooperation	393
6.2.3.1.	Education level and cooperation at SoftCo	393
6.2.3.2.	Education level and cooperation at SpecMatCo	394
6.2.3.3.	Synopsis of effects of education level on cooperation	394
6.2.4.	Effects of rank on cooperation	394
6.2.4.1.	Rank and cooperation at SoftCo	394
6.2.4.2.	Rank and cooperation at SpecMatCo	395
6.2.4.3.	Synopsis of effects of rank on cooperation	395
6.2.5.	Effects of seniority on cooperation	395
6.2.5.1.	Seniority and cooperation at SoftCo	395
6.2.5.2.	Seniority and cooperation at SpecMatCo	398
6.2.5.3.	Synopsis of effects of seniority on cooperation	398
6.2.6.	Effects of attitudes on cooperation	399
6.2.6.1.	Attitudes and cooperation at SoftCo	399
6.2.6.2.	Attitudes and cooperation at SpecMatCo	399
6.2.6.3.	Synopsis of effects of attitudes on cooperation	399
6.2.7.	Effects of commitment on cooperation	400
6.2.7.1.	Commitment and cooperation at SoftCo	400
6.2.7.2.	Commitment and cooperation at SpecMatCo	401
6.2.7.3.	Synopsis of effects of commitment on cooperation	401
6.2.8.	Effects of uncertainty on cooperation	401
6.2.8.1.	Uncertainty and cooperation at SoftCo	401
6.2.8.2.	Uncertainty and cooperation at SpecMatCo	402
6.2.8.3.	Synopsis of effects of uncertainty on cooperation	402
6.2.9.	Effects of participation in integration measures on cooperation	403
6.2.9.1.	Participation in integration measures and cooperation at SoftCo	403
6.2.9.2.	Participation in integration measures and cooperation at SpecMatCo	405
6.2.9.3.	Synopsis of effects of participation in integration measures on cooperation	406
6.2.10.	Effects of structural cooperation requirements on cooperation	406
6.2.10.1.	Structural cooperation requirements and cooperation at SoftCo	406
6.2.10.2.	Structural cooperation requirements and cooperation at SpecMatCo	407
6.2.10.3.	Synopsis of effects of structural cooperation requirements on cooperation	408
6.2.11.	Summary for cooperation of employees after mergers and acquisitions	408

7. Discussion of results for research question “Who cooperates with whom?”	413
7.1. Likelihood of existence of cooperation relationships	415
7.2. Intensity of cooperation relationships	418
7.2.1. Explanations for findings on intensity of cooperation relationships	420
7.2.1.1. Explanation 1: “Homophily only applies for existence but not for intensity of relationships”	421
7.2.1.2. Explanation 2: “Homophily increases over time”	422
7.2.1.3. Explanation 3: “There are fundamental differences between relationships within and between firms”	423
7.3. Summary for cooperation relationships after mergers and acquisitions	426
8. Implications for practitioners	429
8.1. Determine potential synergy effects	431
8.2. Identify cooperation requirements	433
8.3. Identify cooperation constraints	434
8.4. Identify and implement management levers to ensure cooperation	435
8.5. Relevance of findings for the evaluation of acquisition targets	436
8.6. Summary of implications for practitioners	438
9. Academic contribution and implications for further research	439
9.1. Contributions to M&A-research and implications for future research	439
9.2. Contributions to Socioemotional selectivity theory and implications for future research	442
9.3. Contributions to social network research and implications for future research	443
9.3.1. Methodological contributions	443
9.3.2. Contributions to social network research	444
9.4. Final remarks on the social side of mergers and acquisitions	446
References	447
Appendix I – IV	473